Miracle in the Mess

“While they were there, the time came for the baby to be born, and she gave birth to her firstborn, a son” (Luke 2:6,7).

Turning on the radio or strolling through shopping centers this time of year can be a unique experience. If you have celebrated more than a few Christmases, you probably noticed the shift in the kind of songs on heavy rotation. While it isn't shocking that religious music has lost its dominance over the airwaves, some pop selections stick out for their subject matter. Rudolph and Frosty have been pushed aside for the upbeat heartbreak of “Last Christmas” and similar songs.

Sweetly sad songs capturing tragic times

One such seasonal pop song that never fails to grab my attention is “Fairytale of New York” by the Pogues. (A song that was covered by the Kelce brothers in 2023.) It's sad. It's sentimental. It starts slow and then kicks into a frolicking melody. New York in Christmas is the backdrop for a fairy tale that doesn't close with a happy ending. The duet chronicles a couple's quarrel. Bells ringing out for Christmas Day can't drown out the disappointment and resentment of unrealized dreams. It's messy and beautiful at the same time.

Sweetly sad songs capturing tragic times aren't accidentally enticing at Christmas time. They tap into something that resonates with so many people this time of year. We formulate elaborate plans. We imagine sublime scenes in our minds. What we actually get is usually less than a fairy tale ending. Overly optimistic plans get derailed by bad winter weather. Unreasonably high expectations came crashing down with complicated relationships. Memories are often less than magical. Seasonal sentiments can be bitersweet.

It is into this gritty reality that our Savior was born. Mary must have had her own plans for her future. The angelic announcement detoured her expectations onto an unsettling path forward. Dreams of a serene delivery scene were dashed by census demands. We can imagine sublime scenes captured on sentimental Christmas cards. Yet the reality greeting God's own Son in Bethlehem was much messier.

Joyous hymns celebrating Jesus' birth

So much better than a fairy tale comes the miracle in the mess: “While they were there, the time came for the baby to be born, and she gave birth to her firstborn, a son. She wrapped him in clothes and placed him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.” (Luke 2:6,7)

Christmas celebrates the birth of God's Son into our messy lives. Into lives filled with disappointment and heartbreak comes the one who “became poor” and “made himself nothing” so the sake of humanity disappointed with our own performance. (2 Corinthians 8:9; Philippians 2:6) Jesus entered our world in less than pristine conditions for the sake of people who have made messes of relationships repeatedly. What we caused to fall apart with our Father, Jesus came to repair. For all the unrealized expectations of our lives we struggle to overcome, Jesus comes to give us a better hope. This baby we celebrate at Christmas came to live perfectly under God's law in our place. For our messy lives, we celebrate the one who chose to come down to earth so he could bring us to himself in heaven.

You probably won't be able to convince shops and radio stations about the superior quality of Christmas hymns over secular holiday songs. But you get to honor Jesus by singing: “You came to share my misery, that you might share your joy with me.” (Christian Worship 38, s. 8) Whatever sentiments dominate your life this season, Jesus still comes to exceed what you could get from your best holiday imaginations. You can sing of the miracle: “this little child of lowly birth shall be the joy of all the earth.” (CW 38, s. 2) Jesus is with you in the mess of life.

4K and 5K have been having so much fun in school. This group of little ones has lots of energy and so much love for their Savior. They are working hard to prepare their songs and recitations for the Christmas Service and are excited to share the message of Jesus' birth. In Bible class this month the students are going to learn about David and Goliath, The Three Men in the Fiery Furnace, and begin the New Testament with the angle coming to Mary and Jesus' birth. In reading class the 5K students are continuing to practice their CVC words and are learning new sight words. So far they have learned 30 and are going great. The 4K class will continue to work through the alphabet by learning I and J and then reviewing letter A-J. In math the 5K students will begin to learn how to add and subtract and learn different strategies to help them solve problems. The 4K class is going to learn about 2D shapes and their attributes. Kindergarten will begin learning about holidays around the world in social studies. They will learn about Mexico, Germany, Italy, Sweden, India, and Israel. In science the students will explore paper, learn how it's made, and have a chance to make their own. 4K and 5K want to wish you all a happy holiday season and Merry Christmas.

This month I am putting together a wrapping station to help my students practice wrapping which will also work our fine motor skills. I am looking for small boxes and any scrap wrapping paper. I appreciate any help.

Grades 1-2

Mrs. Kuchenbecker

In November we studied the very early history of America. We learned about the Pilgrims and the hardships they faced in their first year in America. We compared life in the past to life today. We visited Pinecrest Historical Village. We made pancakes, played parlor games, and attended a classroom from long ago. The class enjoyed preparing the food for a Thanksgiving feast with their parents. We made butter, mashed the potatoes, made pies, biscuits and muffins. Thanks to our head cooks who guided us in our work! We are thankful for all the things that made our cooking much easier than how the Pilgrims would have had to do it!

The second graders are adding and subtracting with 2 digit numbers with regrouping. We're reading long vowel words, and studying nouns and verbs. The first graders continue to learn more ways to do simple addition and subtraction. We're reading short vowel words, and learning nouns and verbs too. The class successfully completed its first reading challenge and enjoyed a fun afternoon celebrating.

Our main focus now is to learn our parts for our Christmas worship service. The students are excited to share the message of Jesus' birth through words and song. From our classroom to all, have a very happy and blessed Christmas!

Grades 3-4

Mrs. Hagenow

The celebration of Christmas is approaching quickly! The 3rd and 4th graders are busy practicing their Christmas songs and recitations and are excited to share the news of our Savior's birth in the upcoming Children's Christmas Eve Service. They are learning about how to find the area of different shapes as well as working with graphs in Math. In Language Arts, we are studying vowel pairs and working on writing fact and opinion essays. We are investigating how water is a critical factor in our weather and climate and how it interacts with other materials in Science. We continue looking at communities in Social Studies with our focus this month on how communities change over time and how they grow. The 3rd and 4th grade classroom wishes everyone a very Merry Christmas season!

Grades 5-6

Mr. Geidel

November has been a month of academic growth paired with lessons in time management following the beginning of basketball. School is in full swing and they are learning and growing every day. We have begun our discussions of the Third Article of the Apostle's creed. In 5th grade math, we have begun looking at division. In 6th grade math, students have begun looking at algebraic equations and evaluating expressions with variables. Reading the 5th and 6th graders were learning to persuade by presenting a well researched argument. In Grammar, we focused on increasing our ability to describe things in greater detail with descriptive writing. In Science, each student prepared presentations and became experts on a planet in our solar system. Social Studies has finished up looking at early North American cultures. We continue looking at the 7 elements of art and have begun our study of shape.

Grades 7-8

Mrs. Muchka

Happy November! It's hard to believe that it's already December! In Christ Light we are now focusing our study on the prophet Isaiah and the message God is sharing through him. The seventh and eighth graders are learning about percent relationships and graphing linear equations in Math. In American History our focus is currently on the Gilded Age and Progressivism in early America. Our students have been writing expository essays in English class.

We have also been spending time preparing to share the good news of Jesus' birth on Christmas Eve! We hope to worship with you this Advent and Christmas season! Please keep the seventh and eighth grade classroom in your prayers!

Christmas Presentation

On Friday, December 8 at 2:00pm our students will sing and play instruments in the gym. Please mark your calendar and plan on attending. Invite relatives and friends.
